Tara Kuipers is a South Dakota native who has called Wyoming home since 2000. She is an independent consultant for facilitation and public engagement, training, project management, and coaching. She is guided by the experience and insights gained over a 20-year career in nonprofit leadership, higher education, and community development.

Along with her extensive hands-on experience, Tara holds degrees in counseling and adult education which gives her a sharp focus on how people relate, communicate, learn and make positive changes in their lives, organizations, and communities. The mission of Tara Kuipers Consulting is to support and strengthen the ways groups work together, learn together, and achieve great results together.
